Inquiry to Department M 4

Thank you for your message. It will be processed as quickly as possible. In the meantime, please refrain from further inquiries.

We recommend that you save this page for your records, and perhaps even print it out. Use the "Print Summary" button below to do so.

Please note:

- If you requested an extension of the validity of your temporary residence permit (residence permit, EU Blue Card, or D visa for a longer stay) in your email, your stay in Germany (including the supplementary provisions of your current residence permit) is considered legal until your appointment at the LEA (State Office for Immigration and Asylum).
This means you can continue working or studying to the same extent as before.
- Travel abroad is only possible within the validity period of your most recently granted residence permit.
- A Schengen visa (type C) always expires on its validity date. Booking an appointment or submitting an application to the immigration office does not extend the permitted stay with a Schengen visa.
